COUSIN SALLY DILLARD.

Scene—A Court of justice, in No. Ca.

A beardless disciple of Themis rises, and thus addresses the court—May it please your Worships, and you, Gentlemen of the Jury, since it has been my fortune (good or bad I will not say) to exercise myself in legal disquisitions, it has never before befallen me to be obliged to denounce a breach of the peace so enormous and transcending as the one now claiming your attention. A more barbarous, direful, marked and malicious assault, a more willful, violent, dangerous and murderous battery, and finally, a more diabolical breach of the peace has seldom happened in a civilized country, and I dare say it has seldom been your duty to pass upon one so shocking to benevolent feeling as this, which took place over at Captain Rice's in this county, but you will hear from the witnesses. The witnesses being sworn, two or three were examined and deposed—one, that he heard the noise, but didn't see the fight—another, that he saw the row, but don't know who struck first—and a third, that he was very drunk, and couldn't say much about the scrimmage.

Lawyer Chops.—I am sorry, gentlemen, to have occupied so much of your time with the stupidity of the witnesses examined. It arose, gentlemen, altogether from misapprehension on my part. Had I known, as I now do, that I had a witness in attendance, who was well acquainted with all the circumstances of the case, and who was able to make himself clearly and intelligibly understood by the court and jury, I should not so long have trespassed on your time and patience. Come forward, Mr. Harris, and be sworn.

So forward comes the witness, a fat, chucky looking man, a "liddle corned," and took his corporal oath with an air.

Chops.—Mr. Harris we wish you to tell about the riot that happened the other day at Captain Rice's and as a good deal of time has been already wasted in circumlocution, we wish you to be as compendious and at the same time as explicit as possible.

Harris.—"Edzactly,"—giving the lawyer a knowing wink, at the same time clearing his throat—Captain Rice, he gain a treat, and cousin Sally Dillard, she came over to our house and axed me if my wife, she might'n't go—I told cousin Sally Dillard that my wife was being, being as how she had a touch of the Rheumatism in the hip and the big swamp was in the road, and the big swamp was up, for there had been a heap of rain lately; but howsoever as it was she, cousin Sally Dillard, my wife, she might'n't go.—Well, cousin Sally Dillard then axed me if Mose, he might'n't go. I told cousin Sally Dillard that Mose, he was the foreman of the crop, and the crop was smarly in the grass; but howsoever as it was she, cousin Sally Dillard, Mose, he might go.

Chops. In the name of common sense, Mr. Harris, what do you mean by this, rigmorale.

Witness, Captain Rice, he win a treat and cousin Sally Dillard, she came over to our house and axed me if my wife, she might'n't go. I told cousin Sally Dillard—Chops. Stop sir, if you please; we don't want to hear any thing about cousin Sally Dillard and your wife—tell us about the fight at Rice's.

Witness. Well, I will, sir, if you will let me.

Cops. Well, sir, go on.

Witness. Well, Captain Rice, he gin a treat, and cousin Sally Dillard, she came over to our house axed me if my wife, she might'n't go.—Chops. There it is again,—witness, witness, I say, witness, please to stop.

Chops. We want to know about the fight and you must not proceed in this important story—do you know any thing about the matter before the Court?

Witness. To be sure I do.

Chops. Will you go on and tell it, and nothing else?

Witness. Well, Captain Rice, he gin a treat—Chops. This is in order! May it please the Court—I move that this witness be committed for a contempt,—he seems to me to be trifling with the court.

Court. Witness, you are now before a Court of Justice, and unless you behave yourself in a more becoming manner, you will be sent to jail; so begin and tell what you know about the fight at Captain Rice's.

Witness, (alarmed.) Well gentlemen, Captain Rice, he gin a treat, and cousin Sally Dillard—Chops. I hope that this witness may be ordered into custody.

Court. (after deliberating.) Mr. Attorney, the Court is of opinion that we may save time by telling the witness to go on in his own way. Proceed, Mr. Harris, with your story, but stick to the point.

Witness. Yes, gentlemen, well, Captain Rice, he gin a treat, and cousin Sally Dillard, she came over to our house, and axed me if my wife, she might'n't go. I told cousin Sally Dillard that Mose, he was the foreman of the crop, and the crop was smarly in the grass; but howsoever as it was she, cousin Sally Dillard, Mose, he might go.

Chops. Spring after a long absence, has returned.

somever, as it was she, cousin Sally Dillard, Mose, he might go. So on they goes together, Mose, my wife, and cousin Sally Dillard, and they comes to the big swamp, and the big swamp was up, as I was telling you; but being as how there was a log across the big swamp cousin Sally Dillard and Mose, like genteel folks they walk the log, but my wife, like a d-d fool, hosts up her petticoats and vaded, and, gentlemen, that's the height of what I know about it.

ADVERTISING.—The Lever by which Fortune is made.—At a banquet given to the employers of a large establishment in New York city, the owner of the establishment, says the Sun, in the course of a brief history of his rise and progress as a manufacturer, alluded to his indebtedness to the press as the great medium by which he had made the public acquainted with his business, and drawn them to him as his customers.

He said he regarded the press, in this age of competition, as the great fulcrum upon which the tradesman rested his advertisement, and them as by which he overthrown his adversaries. That he who advertises judiciously and extensively was sure to reap the reward of triumph.

If every man dealing wares to the public was guided by this truthful conviction of his interests as the manufacturer, few would have to complain of small sales or ill success in trade. A few, enterprising men of the various trades and professions have got hold of the great success, and it is not strange to us that they rise to fortune, and eminence, to the wonder and annoyance of their less sagacious and non-advertising neighbors.

The Sunday Atlas, in a fit of revolutionary enthusiasm, says—"Hurrah for the girls of '76." "Thunder," cries N. paper, "that is too damned old. No, no—hurrah for the girls of '77!"

"It's a solemn thing to get married," said Aunt Bethany.

"Yes, but it's a great deal more solemn not to be," said her niece.

A western editor, in answer to a complaint of a patron that he did not give news enough, told him when news was scarce to read the Bible, which he had no doubt would be news to him.

THE INFIDEL REPLIED.—When the Rev. Mr. — heard an infidel jestingly say, "I always spend the Sunday in settling my accounts," he turned round and said, in an accent of deep solemnity, "You may find, sir, that the day of judgment is to be sent in exactly the same manner."

Origin of Various Plants.

Every farmer ought to be somewhat acquainted with the origin and history of all ordinary plants and trees, to know their nature, country and condition. Such knowledge, besides being a great source of pleasure, and very desirable, will often enable him to explain phenomena in the habits of many plants that otherwise would appear inexplicable.

Wheat, although considered by some as a native of Sicily, originally came from the central table-land of Tibet, where it yet exists as a grass, with small, mealy seeds.

Rye exists wild in Siberia. Barley exists wild in the mountains of Himalaya.

Oats were brought from North Africa. Millet, one species is a native of India, another of Egypt and Abyssinia.

Maize, (Indian corn,) is of native growth in America. Rice was brought from South Africa, whence it was taken to India, and thence to Europe and America.

Peas are of unknown origin. Vetches are native of Germany. The Garden Bean, is from the East Indies.

Buckwheat came originally from Siberia and Turkey. Cabbage grows wild in Sicily and Naples.

The Poppy was brought from the East. The Sunflower from Peru. Hops came to perfection as a wild flower in Germany.

Saffron came from Egypt. The Onion is also a native of Egypt. Horseradish comes from South Europe.

Tobacco is a native of Virginia, Tobago and California. Another species has also been found wild in Asia.

The grasses are mostly native plants and so are the Clovers, except Lucerne which is a native of Sicily.

The Gourd is an Eastern plant. The Potato is a well-known native of Peru and Mexico. Coriander grows wild near the Mediterranean Archipelago.

Anise was brought from the Grecian Archipelago.

POOR FELLOW.—An eastern editor thus delivers himself: "We would say to the individual who stole our shirt off the pole, while we were lying in bed waiting for it to dry, that we sincerely hope the collar may cut his throat!"

Samuel, beware of the vitamins as read no newspapers. Your father married an 'oman who read none, and you're the consequence. You're as ignorant as an 'orse. Hignorant people says as how it's 'throwin' money away to take newspapers, an 'foolin' away time to read 'em."

Atchison Advertisements.

Atchison Ferry!!

L. BURNS, BRO. & G. M. MILLION.

THIS FERRY has been in successful operation since 1849; during which time it has been the great crossing point for the Oregon, California and Utah Emigrant who came by Hannibal and Palmyra, and being a State Road directly through, and the latitude precisely the same. Our boat is a good one, and we have plenty of hands engaged at all times, to work it. At the opening of Spring we shall have a new one.

STEAM FERRY BOAT, when all can cross without detention. The ferry landing is the best on the River, there being at all times deep water from shore to shore, and very narrow. Our banks have no wide sand beach where stock can mire down, being dry at all times.

To the Emigrant to Kansas we say, this is the place to cross, as when here the distance to other points in the Territory, is nearer than from any other crossing place or below. Atchison, Kansas Ter., Jan. 27 1855.
